Geneva Meeting Is Scene of Chaos—Police Restrict Order in Meeting

By WADE WERNER

Associated Press Foreign Staff
GENEVA, June 30.—Delegates to the Assembly of the League of Nations broke into an uproar today when Haile Selassie, deposed Emperor of Ethiopia, went before them to plead his cause against victorious Italy.

Before he went to the rostrum, he heard the consent of his nation described in a memorandum from the Italian government as "a sacred mission of civilization."

The Italian note said Italy was "the guardian of the sacred mission of civilization and the guardian of the principles of the League."

The Emperor Haile Selassie, granted the right to speak, went up to the rostrum.

Shrieks and whistles swept across the assembly from the galleries, as he got there.

He then turned to the right and attempted to eject fascist demonstrators but

Judgeship Changes In Alberta Courts Seen In Retirement Chief Justice

OTTAWA, June 30.—A general changing around of duties among Alberta Supreme Court judges will follow the retirement of Chief Justice Simons of the trial division of that court in September next, according to well informed authorities here.

It is stated that Chief Justice Simons will be succeeded by Mr. Justice C. R. Mitchell of the Alberta Appeal Court, as it is understood that Mr. Justice Mitchell prefers the work of the trial court to that of the court of appeal.

Mr. Justice Mitchell, however, has been made regarding the retirement of Chief Justice Simons. It is stated that Mr. Justice Mitchell will be transferred from the trial division to the appeal division, and Mr. Justice Mitchell will be transferred from the appeal division to the trial division.

Mr. Justice Mitchell will be transferred from the trial division to the appeal division, and Mr. Justice Mitchell will be transferred from the appeal division to the trial division.

AUSTRIA PLANS TO PLACE OTTO
ON HIS THRONE

Strife and Complications
Seen by Eden and
Blum

VIENNA, June 30.—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg remained in Vienna today and government officials said that for the moment, at least, he did not intend to go to Geneva.

They were commenting on reports the chancellor might appear there to head the League of Nations assembly to plead for the restoration of the Archduke Otto as Kaiser of Austria.

By WADE WERNER
GENEVA, June 30.—Conflicting reports about possible restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria gained renewed attention among assembly members of the League of Nations today.

Gathering for this evening's opening session of the League assembly, called to deal with anti-labor actions, the delegates heard Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg's speech.

He said Austria was seeking to confer with Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, and Leon Blum, new French premier.

Western

Optimism Based on Smallest Carryover in Many Years

By ROBERT J. ANDERSON

WINNIPEG, June 30.—A belief that 1936 will be a banner year for wheat was widespread in western Canada today. The optimism was based on a carryover smaller than any for the past several years, prospects for good crop and a re-adjustment of surplus in an improving world demand.

Particularly hopeful were the wheat farmers. After 35 years of low prices and near crop failures, they were confident that this year, during the new season opening August 1, they would have, perhaps, more than 50,000 bushels of new wheat to market with reasonably high prices available.

At the close of the 1935 season, wheat prices were only cents under 1934, and the carryover was 100,000 bushels less than in 1934. The price of wheat has been rising, not steadily but consistently.

PROVINCE RELAY IRKS CLEVELY

I Saw Today

Irritated over the province's delay in issuing its new property bonds, which he favors providing they will mean prosperity for the unemployed, Ald. W. C. Cleveley told city council's special relief committee Monday that in his opinion it would be better to approach the Dominion government for immediate help as a means of solving Edmonton's critical direct relief situation.

Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., referring to figures prepared by Relief Manager H. F. McKee showing that at the present time there are 3,000 families on relief here as compared to 2,750 at the corresponding time last year. McKee said that the number of persons in receipt of allowances now is approximately 12,000.

Ald. Cleveley proposed a straight cash system for unemployed. Under this plan they would receive cash instead of allowance relief slips, but as an alternative he suggested vouchers instead of cash, which would give them the privilege of spending the vouchers as they saw fit.

The alderman claimed that the provincial government was wasting time in connection with the proposed property bonds. "They were supposed to be out in April, then May, then June—now they're not out yet," he declared. "That's too late if we are going to get them. It's no use waiting for them any longer. We should get them out in June. I think we can look for more from the Dominion than we can from the province."

Five requests by the United Unemployed Marched Men's Association were granted by the committee, which took the following action:

Increase of 10 per cent in relief allowances for unemployed men.

In this connection Ald. E. East requested a report on the earnings of the unemployed in the city of Edmonton, taking the view that they should be paid a minimum wage to contribute help to unemployed men who are receiving more in relief than the wage-earner.

ADDITIONAL COST

One dollar extra per week for unemployed men being given work cards to go out on city jobs—no cost. Unemployed claim that they are not going out to work more than the regular family allowance.

NIGHT BLAZE

Fire of unknown origin which broke out at 11:35 p.m. Monday, completely destroyed premises of John Ambrose Lumber and Machinery Company at You Can Be Too Good—Cincinnati Reds Stun the Fans—Gridiron Bugle Sounds

Did you ever watch a sprint or distance run and try to imagine what the world would say and do if you suddenly developed the ability to run circles around the record holders? If you have pictured yourself the sensation of the age, the target of every news and motion picture camera on the continent and the laurel crowned hero, here you are. You simply all wet. What you actually would get is a Bronx cheer as a deliberate faker, you would be barred from all competitions and someone would undoubtedly call you into an asylum the first time you dropped your guard.

In proof of the foregoing we submit W. G. Stone of England who goes in for walking competitions. A staid English writer says, "he has shown himself a blue streak on the cinders, so fast that his rivals can scarcely keep him in sight." He has made a careful study of the ancient art of the human derby and developed a peculiar motion that looks like a lunge, but falls in the definition of "walking" in that he maintains constant contact with the ground. With this lunge, Stone has been breaking records every time he starts and he is a cinch to ankle up to the finish line in all the Olympic walks in time to take a nap before his opponents even loom up on the horizon behind him.

Are the Olympic authorities in England and Berlin getting in an extra supply of laurel for him and preparing to engrave new records? They are not. They have studied his peculiar walk with the aid of slow motion pictures, discovered that it complies with the regulations, but just the same they refuse to believe what they see. They can't practically declare it to be impossible for any human to walk as fast as he does, and have notified him that he must change his style, in other words slow up, or he will be declared ineligible for the Olympics.

Please, No Pastel Shades!
Last night the Cincinnati Reds stunned their home town fans when they scampered out on the diamond in red pants to play a scheduled National League ball game against the Chicago Cubs. No, it is not a typographical error, they were actually wearing bright red pants. It was too much for the league-leading Cubs and they lost.

In fact it is such an epochal innovation that it leaves you gasping. It chills you to think what it may inaugurate. The pants were padded like Aunt Maggie's favorite woolen comforter, the shirt fronts were detachable for washing, each garment was cut skimpily to make the player's muscles show plainly and the caps were the original model for those now worn by street car conductors, but in spite of all this they never indulged their fancies in a color orgy.

Gridiron Call Issued
Whit Matthews announced last night that an organization meeting open to every interested rugby man in the city would be held on Friday at 8:00 p.m. to deal with the situation for the coming season. An Alberta schedule has already been drawn in which Edmonton is billed to play the Bronks "B" team in Calgary on September 19, Varsity here on September 26 and Bronks "A" here October 22. At present the Hi-Grads of last season appear to be the nucleus around which a senior squad will be built this fall. All necessary equipment is available and Whit Matthews believes it will not be difficult to field a team, although it may not set anything on fire.

Entry To Be Good For Boxing Trials
MONTREAL, June 26.—(C.P.)—The Quebec branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada said last night they expected at least 10 entries, many from the United States, for the 1926 heavyweight boxing division for the Olympic trials July 13, 14 and 15.

HOW TO TELL
LONDON, June 26.—(C.P.)—Watching his first game of football, he can be judged on the basis of his play, he calls the pitcher a "twacker" and the catcher a "wack-er."

Alberta's Sprint Hope

Pictured above is Alex Bland, Alberta's sprint hope in the Montreal Olympic trials. Hailing from Taber, a purely agricultural town, 30 miles east of Lethbridge in the south of the province, Bland recently electrified Alberta track circles when he defeated the recognized mark for the 100-yard sprint. Running at the annual meet of the Canadian A.A.U. conducted under sanction of the Alberta Branch, A.A.U. of C. on May 28, Bland flashed down the cinder path in 9.7 seconds. Tied for three watches he was 9.7, 9.8 and 9.7. To avoid dispute he was credited with a time of 9.7.

SEP. SCHOOLS END SOFTBALL SEASON HERE

Mount Carmel and Saint Alphonsus Capture Honors

The softball season was brought to a close on Friday when Mount Carmel and Grandin senior teams played a sudden-death game for the Separate schools senior league championship. The contest was played down at the golf links diagonally across the city and the Mount Carmel team, which had a record of 10-1, secured the championship by a score of 10-1. Mount Carmel's pitcher, Alex Bland, was the star of the game, pitching a complete game and allowing only one run. The Grandin team, which had a record of 9-2, was defeated by a score of 10-1. The game was a close one, with Mount Carmel leading 1-0 in the first inning, 2-0 in the second, 3-0 in the third, 4-0 in the fourth, 5-0 in the fifth, 6-0 in the sixth, 7-0 in the seventh, 8-0 in the eighth, 9-0 in the ninth, and 10-0 in the tenth. The Grandin team was unable to score in any of the innings.

WAGED CLOSE FIGHT
Three top combines waged a merry war all season and ended up the regular schedule with eight wins and two losses, necessitating a playoff. The teams lined up as follows: Mount Carmel, 10-1; Grandin, 9-2; St. Alphonsus, 8-3. The playoff was held on Friday at the golf links. Mount Carmel won the playoff by a score of 10-1. Grandin was defeated by a score of 10-1. St. Alphonsus was defeated by a score of 10-1.

RECORDS, RECORDS
Records, records, records! Almost every athlete you see nowadays has set new records of some sort or other. So Dorothy Forbes, 16-year-old high schooler from Camden, N.S., thought she was well in the swim. She chose the 30-yard women's backstroke event in an Olympic trial and swam it in 32.8 seconds. A new record, according to the times.

KUSEK HEADS WRESTLING ON FRIDAY CARD

Monta Gustave Johnson In Main Event; Miller and Cummings In Semi.
Gustave Johnson might say that he had never defeated Bud Cummings before last Friday as that victory will lead him to a match with Ewam Kusek at the Empress Hotel. The match will headline Mike Cutcher's card of pro wrestling. Kusek, with his repeated headbutts, has become Edmonton's premier attraction. Apart from his vicious instincts Kusek is really a very clever wrestler. Last year he won the Montana wrestling championship in that state's annual grappling tournament. This year's tournament will be held soon and many of the wrestlers who perform here are preparing themselves for this big event, which attracts the best of the western states and the Pacific coast. Kusek will be defending his title in this meet. In the semi-final Friday, Bud Cummings will take on Tiger Miller. This also bids fair to provide fireworks as Miller has been glowing for Kusek since he has fallen for underhand tactics, which Cummings takes very few of them.

Everett Marshall Whips All Baba
COLUMBIA, June 30.—Everett Marshall, husky young Canadian and Colorado grapple, won what was billed as a world heavyweight championship wrestling match last night in defeating All Baba, the Turkish, in 29 minutes and 20 seconds. Another "fight" horse won the sixth race. Hitter Back, owned by W. W. Miller of Edmonton, started from the outside position but came out in a good race, and made a pretty race, Kamele and Hitter Back in the hand for the where Spaz was done and Whiff. Hitter Back came sweeping along, to find it impossible to deliver a real hit at Kamele. Another "fight" horse won the sixth race. Hitter Back, owned by W. W. ## Hidden Ball Trick Braves' Bad Break As Cards Win, 8-7

Defeat Drops Wetaskiwin to Third Place, Lifting Ponoka to Second; Ninth Inning Packed With Action

NEXT GAME: Tonight, Wetaskiwin at Strays. (Exclusive To Edmonton Bulletin)

WETASKIWIN, June 30.—The hidden ball trick played baseball dividends here last night in the form of an 8-7 triumph to Dick Sperry's Cardinals, but to Wetaskiwin it was just a heart-breaking tough break, causing defeat and an abrupt end to the Braves' ninth inning rally which looked bright indeed. It was Cards' sixth triumph, placing them back into the win column to increase their comfortable lead, but dropped the Braves to third place behind the Ponoka Panthers.

Monday's ninth inning provided moments of thrilling ball excitement. First it was Cardinals who staged a three-run rally in the first half, a rally which later proved a winner, and then the Braves started a hitting. They fought back well, and had scored two runs with only two players retired and had the tying marker parked on third base. Chief Jimmy Rattensnack, the tall and slender chieftain who has many times proven a Wetaskiwin ball hero, was up at bat, but Jimmy had no chance to win his team's game, for the hidden ball trick lost the contest before Jimmy had even taken a "cut" at the ball. It was Dave Fenton, Card third-sacker who trapped the Brave player, ending the game amid a storm of bitterness from the home-team's following.

OVER HEATED WELL
FIRST INNINGS
Dick Sperry, rapidly greying about the temples, but with a goodly amount of baseball ability and an exceptionally large amount of knowledge, proved he could still lead the team. The Cardinals pulled six innings and allowed only four runners. He "twisted" himself out of the game for a ninth-inning. He was relieved of twisting duties by Hugh Gerardin while the Braves did the punching hitting. Gerardin was touched for the same amount of hits as Sperry, it was, however, fortune in the ninth with the hidden ball trick as it was in that frame that the Braves started to jump his slant right out of the game.

THE GAME IN SEVENTH
Cardinals trailed by two or more runs until the seventh inning. The teams matched one run each in the seventh as the Braves going to the front in the fourth, matched a brace more in the sixth with the Cards and then lost their lead in the seventh as the Braves went out a three-hit attack for two runs.

Fred Lupul and Gerardin polished off that Cardinal attack by two hits, but the Braves' full distance team matched one run each in the seventh as the Braves going to the front in the fourth, matched a brace more in the sixth with the Cards and then lost their lead in the seventh as the Braves went out a three-hit attack for two runs.

FRONIED LED
Eddie Kronfeld led Wetaskiwin's batters. He had three hits in five at bats, with two of them being triples. He was tips for his two hits, the others getting only one each.

Pinky Ferro and Hugh Gerardin were leading bunters while Fred Lupul was the only Cardinal to hit for a sacrifice. Two double plays were registered.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL COCHRANE Pictures by GEORGE SCARRO

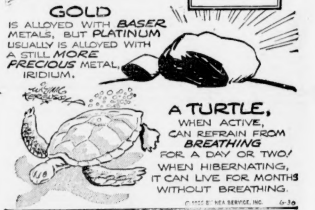

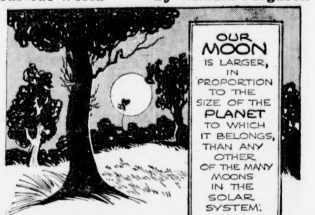

"He ha" laughed the old Sandman. "I can make folks slumber when I try. All of the little Toots are sleeping safe and sound. Now, Princess Sunshine, I read go. There's lots of work to do, you know. It's time to go to bed. Last night I was real tired, but now I'm feeling simply swell!"

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Just then a big, fat duck came near. "All right, Conny, take me out of here," the duckman shouted, as he climbed aboard the funny duck. It is just a moment, off they flew. The duckman cried, "Goodbye to you, I hope that you enjoy your ride, and have a lot of luck." And then a voice, up in the tree, yelled, "Hello, Conny, look out for me, I'm "uler Rain and I am going to turn some raindrop loose. My sprinkling can I will upset and you all will get soaking wet. Don't try to sneak away from me, cause there will be no use. I'll follow you wherever you go." Then, once again, he laughed, "Ha, ha," and the duckman shouted, "You're as silly as can be! "Somebody your little trick works fine, but these small two are friends of mine. If you drop just one drop, you will be sorry. You will see!"

Curious World By William Ferguson

The moon has a diameter of 2,160 miles, and a gravitational pull of one-sixth that of the earth. In other words, a person weighing 120 pounds on earth would weigh only 20 pounds if he lived on the moon.

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

—By U.A.R. GLEASON

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CLAIRE FOSDICK sat alone in a lonely room, looking out at the moonlit night. The house was old and the furniture was shabby. Claire's parents are dead and she has learned that the fortune she thought was secure is gone. Her mother, Mrs. F. H. FOSDICK, died in a fire, but Claire could not bring her to life. The trip to the mountains is for two purposes: (1) to visit her mother's grave and (2) to search for a mysterious event mentioned in her mother's will. She is supposed to be hidden in the house.

The main highway Claire crosses into a lot across the road.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

When Claire regained her senses she was lying on the ground with a cut for a pillow. A young man was bending over her, his face anxious from his face. For a minute she stared at him, then a smile of recognition touched her lips.

"Pat Magan?"

He grinned. "Sure, the very name. And do you think you're trying to do yourself any good? With one arm he lifted her to a sitting position, while he held a flask to her lips. "Just a couple of this and you'll feel finer than ever."

Obediently the girl swallowed the fiery liquid. Presently she straightened up and looked about her as another young man came out of the darkness.

"How is she, Pat?" he asked.

"Guess she was just knocked out for a minute," Pat told him. "Then, with a wave of his hand at the new comer, 'Claire, this is my side-kick, Bob Steele, a mining old timer, with a good job—believe it or not. He's spending his vacation at the Rockies. Miss Claire FOSDICK, Bob, I used to aim valentines and squabbles at her when we were in grammar school."

Claire smiled and held out her hand rather shyly. "How about my car, Mr. Steele?"

He shook his head. "Pretty badly damaged. Front axle braced and a lot of minor casualties. Someone had closed the road with that lot. We'll have to take the jolly Irish boy and his car. They were going, Miss FOSDICK. We heard the smash and boom."

Claire turned toward her eyes on Pat. "Closed the road? You mean the log was put there?"

"Sure. Probably repairing or something. But Bob and I are on the loose, and we'll be taking you to the road. You'll be able to make it over to our car." He helped her to her feet. After a minute she was able to walk unaided and got into their car to wait until they could move the wreck out of the road.

When finally they came back she had decided to tell them why she was going to the house in the mountains, omitting only her personal reasons.

Although she had seen most of Pat Magan the last few years, she had always had a warm glow in her heart for the jolly Irish boy with whom she had gone to school. The blond young man, however, was a stranger, of course, but she liked him, and she liked his car.

For some reason she could not explain Claire felt she was going to need help. "Hannah must have talked me into it," she told herself. The fact that the road to the House of Long Shadows had been deliberately closed by her disturbed her more than she could tell.

"Let's get going, Pat," she urged.

"Sure," Pat answered with enthusiasm. "We'll show you how depression can get up the mile. Depression's the car, you know, in Claire's words."

Claire pointed out the road and then told them about her quest, even to the part about the mysterious hidden jewel.

For a minute neither of the young men answered. Then Bob Steele and Claire. "We had planned to spend most of our vacation in the city. Miss FOSDICK, but if you look over the house in the mountains, maybe some of my technical knowledge would come in handy. Things underground, you know, not to mention her and butler."

"Count me in, too, Claire," Pat agreed. "I can't think of anything else I can do for you. You'll see what we can do. Maybe we can help."

The rest of the trip was spent in talking. Claire told them her fondness for jewels and how he had given the fantastic name to his house in the mountains.

"And you mean to tell me that no dime ever waited him up the church aisle and matched his name?" Claire asked Pat incredulously. "A bachelor with married friends to drift around the world buying jewels?"

"Sure. Sprat was his housekeeper for years and she never spoke of any woman. No, he never married. Claire answered. "Uncle Lyman said he could be alone. You'll see what I mean when we get there."

When they came to the end of the trip both young men agreed that Lyman FOSDICK had indeed placed his house well.

In the uncertain light of a half moon the building loomed alone. It was a perfect example of the flamboyant mansions of an earlier period—narrow railed porches, and many bulging bay windows. At the right side of the second story rose a round cupola which seemed to float into the shadow of a huge pine tree with twin tops that grew close to that side of the house. In fact, the stony aspect of the place was largely due to this mighty giant of the forest.

"It really two trees grown together and a mysterious specimen as you will see by daylight," Claire said, pointing toward the tree.

"But I must cut off lots of light from the house," remarked Bob Steele.

Claire nodded. "Yes. It's the house of long shadows, you know."

In spite of the sound of the wheels on the gravel driveway no light shined in the darkness.

front windows. In the distance a dog barked.

"Quiet old place," muttered Pat. "Drive up to the porch and let me out." Claire said. "I'll get the Sprat while you take the dog around to the barn."

But Bob got out and went up the steps with her. "Sure you'll be all right," he said, "but you'll be all right," he said.

"Why not?" asked Claire in surprise. "You come here all my life." She twisted the iron knob of the door. The faint sound of the bell ringing could be heard in the stillness, then footsteps. Presently the door opened a crack and a sharp-eyed man peered out.

"Hello, Bob," the girl greeted him as she went in.
